Freedom of Information -
What the Isle of Man is missing!
by Martin Rosenbaum
7.30 pm. Monday 30th September 2013
Manx Legion, Market Street, Douglas
Free Admission - Open to all

Martin Rosenbaum is a BBC News specialist in using the Freedom of Information (FOI) Act. He trains and advises BBC journalists on FOI, and has addressed international conferences on journalism and Freedom of Information.

Martin is an Executive producer in the BBC Political Programmes department, overseeing a variety of radio programming. He produces radio documentaries on topics ranging from the inside story of Gordon Brown's premiership to the politics of The Simpsons.

Martin will present his thoughts on FOI, the issues it raises, the changes it is causing, the stories that result and what it could mean for the Isle of Man.
